THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

MONEY MARKET, NORTH AND SOUTH.

The money market in New York was never more fully supplied than at present, and the rate of interest is four or five per cent. on call loans, and six or seven on stocks or other securities. The current of money now sets strongly from the interior towns to the commercial centre. The war-cloud has passed off also, and the prospect of good crops throughout the country inspires hope for the future. The early rehabilitation of the excluded Southern States will remove the last and chief obstacle to commercial confidence. The present ease of the money market appears to be owing to the fact that business is still very dull. The banks, however, find enough to do in furnishing money to stock-jobbers to enable them to sustain their load of railroad and other stocks, which they hold in expectation of a rise.—Speculation is again becoming rampant, in consequence of the abundance of money and the prospect of better railroad and other dividends next fall. Meanwhile the South is bare of money; Northern capital is idle, or engaged only in speculation. It is refused to all applicants from the South, in consequence of the general distrust which the radical organs have inculcated in relation to everything in the South. From ten to twenty-five per cent. is frequently offered by planters and factors upon as good security as any that Wall street could give, for funds required in the cotton and sugar culture.—Large and formerly very productive estates, some with very fine improvements, in Georgia, and other cotton growing States, are every day sacrificed under the hammer at forced sales. This distress for money will greatly aggravate the suffering for the want of food. Money is necessary to promote industry and pay labor.—National Intelligencer.

HAYTI.

Since General Jeffrard shipped himself and his presidency for foreign parts, we blush to confess we do not know who is King in Hayti. But we do know who is United States Minister resident—the official representative of this great Hail Columbia. He is one Professor H. E. Peck, of Oberlin, Ohio, who was appointed by "the late," because of his ultra radicalism, having been a professor in the black and white College at Oberlin, and a freedom shrieker of purest ray serene. This Minister Peck is an original believer in the capacity of our colored friends for self government, and must be regarded as an unimpeachable witness. How he likes the position in Hayti, and what kind of a government the negroes have instituted, and how it preserves peace, order and morality, can be gathered from the following letter, which we find in the Cleaveland Leader. Mr. Peck says:

"PORT-AU-PRINCE, Hayti, March 21, 1867. —At my last writing to friends in Oberlin (February 26,) we had just had an outbreak in this city. The attempt at revolution had caused fearful excitement, and the loss of much property and some lives, but had at last been put down by the government.—Since then we have passed through most exciting and trying scenes. The attempt at revolution was put down only in appearance, not in fact. It soon came to be clear to the President that if he persisted in holding his office he and his family would be assassinated, and anarchy would get the upper hand. So he abdicated and went, on a French man-of-war, to Jamaica. A provisional government took the power, but it was a government so full of contrarieties and opposite views that it hardly amounted to a government. For a week we hung over the brink of horrors of all kinds, but events have at length composed themselves. We have now a temporary government, which, although it is thoroughly revolutionary in its ideas, will probably keep order.

The month which passed has been one of the most trying ones of my life. I have a thousand times wished that my dear ones were out of the country. But God has brought us through in safety. My wife has been perfectly cool and courageous throughout the whole. A woman could not have behaved better, and few men would have done so well. The change in political affairs may materially change my plans about going home, and I do not know when either Mrs. Peck or I will see Oberlin."

All this is very bad, but advices received yesterday represent matters as much worse. The "smart children of the sun" seemed to be so greatly tickled with the success of their first revolution, that General Victoria, who appears to command the revolutionary forces, has resolved on a second. He has accordingly, after the fashion of General Sheridan, resolved to set aside the election which was appointed for the 8th of May, and erect Hayti into Military District No. 1.; more Americanorum.

One Salnave seemed so much the favorite of the people that the Haytian Congress sent General Victoria to St. Marks to meet him, and give him honorable escort to the capital.

General Victoria started with commendable obedience on this mission, but on arriving at St. Marks, altered his military mind, and instead of a feu de joice, saluted the astonished Salnave with fortifications!

Another revolution is expected, and another evidence of the capacity of Hayti for self-government.—Richmond Examiner.

She brings together those long separated, gives information concerning absent friends or lovers, restores lost or stolen property, tells you the business you are best qualified to pursue and in what you will be most successful, causes speedy marriages and tells you the very day you will marry, gives you the name, likeness and characteristics of the person. She reads your very thoughts, and by her almost supernatural powers unveils the dark and hidden mysteries of the future. From the stars we see in the firmament—the malefic stars that overcome or predominate in the configuration—from the aspects and positions of the planets and the fixed stars in the heavens at the time of birth, she deduces the future destiny of man. "THE SOUTH IN THE UNION"—THE MANUFACTURING SYSTEM.

The last Asheville News contains the first of a series of articles, under the caption of "the South in the Union," the object of which is to demonstrate the material development and prosperity that await the South, and North Carolina particularly, if our national troubles are composed on a just and liberal footing. The writer especially predicts for the State a grand career as a manufacturing power,—based upon our natural resources and aptitudes for that branch of industry.

The hand of nature seems to point out North Carolina as a region of country admirably adapted to manufactories. And yet, with all the materials and aliments at hand, we have hitherto annually expended millions in the purchase of articles manufactured in Europe and at the North out of our own raw material. Had we ourselves converted that material to the extent we should, we would thereby have diverted from Agriculture some of the surplus labor and turned it to other pursuits—transmuting producers into consumers and creating at home good markets for the products of the farmer. It is true that a few enterprises, on a comparatively large scale, have been prosecuted in our midst, but the results have been wretchedly incommensurate with either the demand or our capabilities.

So far as manufacturing establishments depend, for their profitable operation, upon water-power, climate and provisions, the facilities afforded by this State fully meet every requirement. Few States in the Union abound more in sites of water power. The shoals and falls in our primary rivers, the smaller rivers and large creeks, furnish never failing supplies. Much of this power is found in that range of country where the cotton grows well; and higher up, near the mountains, there is no limit to its extent. The soil and climate of North Carolina are admirably adapted, as we have repeatedly demonstrated by the logic of statistics, to the production of all the necessaries of life depending on Agriculture. It occupies, indeed, a sort of middle ground where the staples and products of the North and South meet in social proximity in the same rich fields. In the requisites, only, of skill and capital are we deficient, and these might long since have been supplied by a judicious and practical employment of the means within our reach. By holding out the proper inducements to intelligent immigration, the necessary knowledge and skill might easily have been commanded. When manufactories were first introduced into New England, the want of these requisites was as much felt there as it has been here, for their people were compelled to import their superintendents and mechanics from Europe. Heretofore, the difficulty in the way of the necessary capital lay in the fact that the wealth of our citizens consisted in property that was not easily convertible into money; lands and negroes. Now, more than ever, that the ravages of war have desolated the land and impoverished the people, we must be dependent for this capital upon extraneous sources. The manufacturing system, we are convinced, i sthe policy now to be depended upon to relieve our State of the evils that press upon her. Our habits and prejudices have hitherto been averse to it, but we must yield to the force of things and profit by the indications of current events. It can be made our greatest means of wealth and prosperity, and, once rooted firmly among us, will flourish like a vigorous plant in its native soil.

We have not only been fatuitous in neglecting this appropriation of the raw material of cotton, but we have barely grown enough wool for the commonest domestic uses. And this appears all the more inexcusable, in view of our eminent and incontestible advantages for the production. The climate and soil of North Carolina are excellently adapted to sheep-husbandry. In the eastern and middle parts of the State are extensive tracts of land well suited to the purpose of grazing, while the mountainous portions stand unrivalled for wide spreading ranges of the most luxuriant grass. Besides, one thousand dollars in North Carolina will purchase a more extenive sheep-walk than twenty times that amount will command in New England, New York or Pennsylvania. And in more northern latitudes, sheep require to be fed nearly six months in the year; while here six weeks is as long as is necessary.

The following may be summed up as the elements indispensable for building up and encouraging manufacturing establishments which we possess, under ordinary circumstances, lavishly:

1. All the raw material for fabrication.
2. The power neccessary for the labor-saving machinery.
3. Provisions, cheap and abundantt.
4. Climate, healthy and mild.

THE RICHMOND Enquirer, alluding to the North Carolina table at the Hollywood Bazaar, says that "the daughters of North Carolina have displayed a liberality in their contributions equalled only by the valor of the sons of the Old North State during the recent struggle."

The table is elegantly decorated with flowers, which are received in boxes daily from Mrs. Graham Daves, of Wilmington, and acknowledgments are also made for beautiful floral contributions to Mrs. Col. Coleman and Mrs. Sloan, of Greensboro.

SOUTHERN LANDS.

The Washington Chronicle says, very correctly and properly, that:

"Now is a good time for capitalists to invest money in Southern lands, but still better for earnest, honest, workingmen to secure homes for themselves, which will be of great value to their children. The breaking up of the old labor monopoly by the rebellion has not only thrown the labor of the South into the market, so that enterprise can have a fair chance, but it has also thrown a large amount of land into the market, which under the slave system was always cheap, and which in the social transition is even cheaper. There will always be alarmists to prophesy ruin in the event of any change. They have contributed to reduce the value of Southern lands, while there are others who must sell to live. We know of no better method to help the Southern people than to induce the settlement amongst them of men of industry, good habits, and enlarged ideas. Northern energy and capital, and Northern respect for labor, will revolutionize the South and make its desolate places smile again with the products of industry. We believe that the time is coming when peace will be real, and men will feel safe to emigrate to the South and live there. When this happens lands will begin to increase in value, and all the new appliances to save labor will be brought into play."

It is seldom we can endorse anything that Forney says. He has shown himself to be governed so much by sinister motives, and by hostility to the South, that we had ceased to rely upon anything he would say—yet, in the above, we are ready to yield his correctness and foresight. It is true that lands are abundant and cheap, and that this is the time when the industrious, honest poor men of the North should come among us to become actual and permanent settlers, with a certain prospect of making a good living. And we most earnestly invite the industrious, honest, quiet, liberal hearted men of the North to come and settle. If they show the proper spirit towards our people—a spirit of kindness and a disposition to help and be helped, to stay with us and link their fortunes with the Southern people, for weal or woe, we pledge the courtesy, friendship and support of our people, making an oblivion of the past.

There is, however, already in the South, (and more are coming) a class of the Northern population, whose presence and association are not so desirable. We by no means include those, in this remark, who are officially connected with the military departments of the government. We allude to those who, having left the employment of the government, have become mere squatters in the South, for the purpose of making money, or who design to procure a "residence," in order to become eligible to offices of trust and profit. We fear there are too many of this class, whose object is simply to fleece us of the little that yet can be made of us, or to acquire that position and office and consequent influence among us, which they could not obtain at home by their own merits, with the view of controlling the popular will of the country. If the Congress designs to guarantee to the South republican State governments, we insist upon it that they shall be administered by men to the "manor born," or those who come among us and have become permanently identified with the interests of the country. Our readers will remember the remark of an army officer in the late Holdenite Convention, here, who stated that he expected to settle in North Carolina and to represent one of our Districts in Congress. He would have done much better to have kept his own secrets. When we are obliged to import men to fill our offices and represent us in Congress, our people would desire to have some hand in the selection.

THE MATTER IN A NUTSHELL.

The Danville Times thus puts the matter of reconstruction in the smallest compass:

"We are in favor of doing what we are forced to do by the military bill—no more. But, we are in favor of doing that much, with the greatest promptness. Hence, we urge our friends to register and vote. Indifference in this matter will be fatal to our prosperity."

Restoration and reconciliation are so necessary to the future prosperity of the South, that they should be effected as soon as possible. As Congress has determined that nothing short of a full compliance with the Reconstruction law can procure a settlement, we can see no other course left to law-abiding men and good citizens, but to obey the law promptly and fully. Therefore, we repeat the injunction of the Times: Every man, not disfranchised, should by all means register and vote. The duty we consider imperious. But while we take this ground, we are equally positive in our opinion, that no true friend of the white or black man in North Carolina can be willing that the State Convention, in forming a new constitution, should go further than the Reconstruction act of Congress demands. This point should be strongly impressed upon the mind of every voter in the State.

COMMISSIONERS OF CLAIMS.

This body is now in session, and to-day commences the consideration of the claims submitted for its investigation, by authority of a late Act of Assembly, which we will publish to-morrow. We shall also publish to-morrow, for public information, the principal rules under which the Commissioners will act. It would be well for the press throughout the State to notice these rules, that their readers may be well informed of their rights. The rules are very general, and are obliged to be so, from the great complexities of the large interests involved. Some rules had to be adopted, by which the repudiated State debt could be distinguished from those claims, which, either from their origin or use, may be exempt from the war taint and which the State is anxious to provide for as early as possible. The Commissioners are required to report the result of their action to the next session of the Legislature—and should that be in August, they will, we think, have no time to lose. They hold their sittings in the Supreme Court room, at present, and will continue their labors until the claims before them shall be disposed of, or until the assembling of the Legislative body to which they are to make their report.

THE LATE HON. JOHN M. MOREHEAD.

The Greensboro' Patriot publishes the impressive and eloquent oration of the Hon. John Kerr, of Caswell, on the life and character of the Hon. John M. Morehead, delivered at Wentworth on the 26th. of February last. Its great length precludes its publication entire in our columns, but we make the following extracts from the concluding portion:

Governor Morehead came to the bar in 1819, a little past the meridian of the very brightest era in the juridical annals of North Carolina.

The first quarter of the current century was illustrated in our State by a fraternity of lawyers of the highest order of natural gifts, and of profound learning in the science of law. Among the professional lights of the time alluded to were William Gaston and John Stanley, Edward Graham and Moses Mordecai, Gavin Hogg and Iredell, Strong and Toomer, Eccles and Strange—these were of the Eastern and Cape Fear circuits, while in the middle and Western circuits we had Peter Brown, Seawell, George E. Badger, Wm. H. Haywood and Thomas P. Devereux, Duncan Cameron, William Norwood, Murphy and Nash, Yancey, Ruffin, Settle and Shepperd, Archibald Henderson, James Martin, Joseph Wilson, and David F. Caldwell, and others well worthy of association with those I have named, together constituting a resplendent galaxy, certainly not surpassed, if equalled, by any on this continent. The older class of the gentlemen referred to, were, when Gov. Morehead entered the profession, in their occident, "and the Western horizon was in a blaze with their descending glories;" the younger "were rising in the opposite quarter of the Heavens, and quickly became lords of the ascendant." It is no small tribute to him to say that at such a time, with the public mind familiar with such examples, he rose rapidly to eminence, and, in his own circuit of practice, became master of the first position.

Nor was he without formidable rivalry in his ascent to fame. Among the most prominent of his immediate contemporaries with whom he had to contend habitually were of those who preceded him at the bar,—by a few years only,—Bartlett Yancey, James Martin, Thomas Settle and Augustine H. Shepperd: of those who came shortly after him, Governor Graham, Chief-Justice Pearson, Hugh Waddell, Nathaniel Boyden, his brother James T. Morehead, John F. Poindexter, Ralph Gorrell and George C. Mendenhall, all men of general ability, and of surpassing excellence in their respective *forte*s.

Yancey was a man of great personal dignity, of commanding influence throughout the State; and, owing to the relation he sustained to the political parties of his day, with equal success in the courts and on the hustings

"Wielded at will the fierce democratie."

Settle, who for more than twenty years graced the judicial ermine, was full of the fervor of genius, and with a strong hold on the popular regard, and singular skill in the arts of advocacy, was able in all his courts to command a fine practice, and maintain a high position.

Shepperd, with a clear head, and as pure a heart as ever beat in human breast, was thoroughly proficient in the science of special pleading, the technicalities of which he brought to bear at times upon his adversaries to their great surprise and discomfiture.

Martin, like Settle, wore the judicial robes for many years, and sustained upon the bench the reputation for learning he acquired at the bar; ardent and zealous in the causes of his clients, he was by these qualities, and his professional attainments together, rendered at all times a strong antagonist in forensic disputations.

Mendenhall, by indefatigable industry and the strictest attention to the minutest circumstances in the preparation of his cases, and a most confident and bold manner of address to juries, with good attainments in the law, made himself formidable, won a large practice and a fine reputation.

These have all passed away, and deserve much more than this brief tribute. For the others I have named who still live, it were ungraceful to do more now, than to assign them a place as I have done in the honorable category presented.

In such times as he lived, with such knowledge and influences surrounding him, and with such rivals as he had—to have won such eminence and fame as he did win, proves John M. Morehead clearly entitled to be ranked in his profession among the great.

Nor are we at loss to discover the elements of his greatness. He had genius and talent both in high degree. His mental resources were ample and full. His powers of invention and talent for application were equally striking, equally ready.

He was not very accurately, not very extensively, learned in the law; he had however mastered its general principles, and without much acquaintance with the cases in Banc, his mind was so ordered, was of such a practical cast—that he was one of the best counsellors in the State. No client was ever heard to complain of having been misled by his advice.

But it was as an advocate that he shone with peculiar splendor.

His presence, as I have already said, was imposing—his argumentation was logical—his wit sparkling—his illustrations striking and his flow of soul under the excitement of his causes captivating to all hearts. He assailed with great force his adversaries' positions—and defended his own with consummate skill. He was always self-possessed—always courteous. He had the best control of his temper of any man I ever knew. It was in vain to attempt to get the advantage of him by exciting his anger.

He who did this, was sure to meet the fate of one, who should be foolish enough to arouse a sleeping lion merely to hear him roar. The roar he might hear—but he would also be devoured. He was a man of strong will—and possessed great power of controlling others in and out of the courts. During the last ten years of his practice at the bar, he defended in nearly all of the capital cases occurring in his circuit, and in such trials never lost but one verdict, and in that instance his client by his exertions was pardoned. He never had a client capitally executed.

His rhetoric would not have passed in the schools. His diction was not always grammatical. He seemed to care very little for these matters. Language with him as with Mr. Calhoun was the mere "scaffolding of thought;" he used it for its strength, rather than for its beauties.

This carelessness was a defect in him much to be regretted. There is a moral benefit arising from the cultivation of accuracy and good taste in the use of language. Indeed good taste in regard to everything we do, is very nearly akin to good morals.

His deportment to the junior members of the profession was in accordance with the general tenor of his life. He was always gracious in his demeanor towards them, and gave them every encouragement and assistance in his power in court and out of court. When in discharge of his duty, he defeated them in trials, he did it in such a way as to make them feel that they had done quite handsomely themselves—but it was the badness of the cause alone that led to their defeat. He had, too, an amiable way of letting off little compliments to them that were exceedingly grateful to their wounded feelings under the sense of their failures.

It is just here at this point that my own heart, touched by the recollection, sends up its offering of gratitude to his memory, for soothing it on more than one occasion, when it was aching in silence under a feeling of the utter lack on my part of all that was necessary to secure success in life, and when it was yearning for some kind, encouraging word.

He was a kind man—a good lawyer and a great advocate.

Of his patriotism, I shall, in addition to what I have already said, only express the conviction of my own mind, that it was ardent, enlightened and true, and was controlled by principles which, had they been carried out in the general administration of our government, would have averted the calamities we now so sorely feel, and have conducted us, as a people, to the highest attainment of national felicity.

As a statesman, the policy he approved was enlarged and comprehensive. No merely sectional attachments ever obtained the mastery over his mind or heart—but partaking largely of the spirit and views of Mr. Clay, had he been placed in the national councils, he would have known no North, South, no East, nor West, but would have consecrated all his faculties to the best service of his whole country, and would have left the impress of his genius and wisdom on the national, as he has done on the institutions of his own State. North Carolina, certainly, owes him a large debt of gratitude, for what he did for her, as well when he was in the private walks of life as when charged with the duties of high official station.—To him, more than to any other man, is she indebted for her existing works of Internal Improvement—her benevolent Institutions, and the new impulse which the cause of Education received when his star was at the zenith of its culmination. He was not only possessed of eminent ability to originate and direct general plans, but he was perfect master of details, and saved the State immense expenditures, by his familiarity with mere matters of account, and with mechanical rules, and civil engineering. He was not to be deceived by laborers in any department, but, understanding their business as well as they did, he exercised firmness, and incurred much enmity, by withstanding their exorbitant charges, and by exacting the utmost fidelity in the execution of their contracts. In this respect, as in some others, he has often reminded me of what is related of the great Napoleon.

It is believed by many, who did not know him well, that he was not possessed of much information derived from reading. As to his acquaintance with books, I am persuaded that there is a prevalent mistake in regard to it.

After I became acquainted with him, I had no reason to believe that he was much given to books, but he must have been at some period of his life a close, thoughtful and studious general reader, for he was undoubtedly, far more than is usual with our profession in the State, familiar with belle lettres, history and the arts and sciences.—When, or how, he acquired his knowledge of these things, I am unable to say; probably, however, while he was a youth, before he went to college, and when he was there, he laid up such treasures by diligent improvement of his golden opportunities, as enabled him to fill his future dignities with the accomplishments that became them.

With unpremeditated facility he could recite, with effect and point, from Milton, Shakspeare, Campbell, Burns and other classical and belle-lettres writers, and several of his professional brethren, now present, will probably never forget the electrical effect he produced in a trial at Stokes, when defending a beautiful woman by a most apposite quotation from one of the poems of Savage.

He was no pedant, however, and indulged no vain ostentation. He had read

"Multum, sed non multa."

Much, but not many books. This I deem both wise in him and fortunate for his country. He was a man of original ideas, and was for the most part controlled by his own and not by the views of others.

Had it been otherwise with him, he might have become as too many are in the present day,

"Deep versed in books, but shallow in himself."

He was a working man. The prominent trait of his character was practical vigor—but he had enough acquired information from books, enough of literary taste and respect for learning, to rescue his honored name from the list of the followers of Omar, and to place it in its rightful association with those of the cultivated, enlightened and liberal gentlemen and statesmen of the nineteenth century in the great christian Republic of America.

It is deeply to be regretted, that none of the fine displays of his talents as a lawyer and statesman remain to us in print. His fame would on this account, be the less enduring, were it not that imposing edifices projected by his genius and reared under his superintendence, for the instruction, sustenance and comfort of the Deaf, the Dumb, the Blind and stricken victims of Lunacy, stand gracefully erect and point high toward Heaven, to speak constantly his praise—while engines of steam, running with animating celerity from East to West, and throughout the State, will catch the strain and repeat it with joyous acclaim to future generations.

GOOD CROPPING.—We find the following statement in a letter to the Petersburg Express, from a correspondent in Brunswick County, Va. Thousands of young men, who prefer to be clerks and shop-keepers, could do as well by energy and industry in the quiet, moralizing pursuits of the farmer, away from the vicious and indolent associations of our towns. The writer says:

"I was employed last year by Captain James Neblet, to superintend his Home Place, and measure and divide all crops of his tenants, of one of which I make mention.

Mr. Wm. L. Braswell, with one mule and a negro boy fourteen years old, measured 155 barrels of corn, which is 775 bushels, at one dollar, $775; 1,200 pounds of seed cotton, sold in seed at 8 cents per pound, $96; 2,700 pounds tobacco, weighed but unsold, at $8 per hundred, $216; 10 stacks good fodder, 1,000 pounds to the stack, $100; 30 bushels black eye peas, $1 per bushel, $30—making a total of $1,217, besides Irish and sweet potatoes, not measured or divided, but good crops of both.

Not one pound of guano was bought or used on this place. There were one more white tenant and three sets of blacks on different places, all of which I will send you if you desire it. No part of wheat or oats belong to tenants."

Ristori, it is said, has made $278,000 clear profit by playing one hundred and sixty-eight nights during her visit to the United States. What other calling in life pays like this?

The corner-stone of a Jewish temple, laid in Louisville on the 24th, bore, besides the Jewish date, "Anno Domini, 1867."

It is stated that the price to be paid by the United States Government for Russian America is about three cents an acre.

All the Seniors acquitted themselves very creditably, and I will, therefore, make no distinctions.

On Saturday Morning, the Senior report was read, as follows:

The first distinction in scholarship was awarded to Mr. Patrick H. Winston, of Bertie, Co., N. C., the 2nd. to Mr. G. M. Ross, of Cumberland, and the 3rd. to Mr. Robert W. Means, of Cabarrus Co.

Mr. Winston will deliver the Valedictory at Commencement, and Mr. Rose the Salutatory.

The music at Senior speaking was very fine, and the Marshals kept the most perfect order.

Raleigh must send her beauties up to Commencement.

GRAND PRESENTATION CONCERT

IN AID OF THE

SOUTHERN ORPHAN

ASSOCIATION,

INCORPORATED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF VIRGINIA,

Jan. 30th. 1867.

To be Given at Baltimore, June 17th

1867.

TICKETS ONE DOLLAR EACH, TO BE HAD of JOHN BRAGG, Agent, at Southern Express Office, Raleigh, N. C.

Owing to recent troubles, the Managers have issued the following Card to which the attention of the Public is called:

PRESENTATION CONCERT,
Baltimore, April 15, 1867.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—Our attention has been called to extracts in Southern papers reflecting upon the management of the Presentation Concert in aid of the Southern Orphan Association, and in answer to the statements and assertions contained in such extracts we wish to lay the whole matter before the people, that they may judge from the actions of our accusers the motives by which they are governed. We call attention to the facts contained in the following card, and request the public to bear in mind that the parties mentioned were only members invested with no authority to act in any official capacity whatever. The power they sought to usurp would give them full control of the books and funds, by which they could shape the first to suit them, and withdraw the latter from the bank, where it is now, subject to the order of the Association:

[From the Baltimore Gazette April 11.]

TO THE PUBLIC.

The Southern Orphan Association being liable to misrepresentation in consequence of the late arrest of some of its members on charges preferred by Mr. A. G. Kimberly, we beg leave to present the following statements in regard to the Association and its accusers:

At the inception of the Society the ladies connected with its origin, in view of difficulties that might arise in procuring a charter, determined to admit as members such gentlemen as were supposed to be proper to advise and assist them. Some of these gentlemen apparently worked for the sole benefit of the Association until the Charitable Concert was proposed. After that their actions showed but too plainly that they desired to obtain control of the Association.

At a meeting of the Trustees upon the 5th. of March a constitution, drawn up by Messrs. Kimberly and Hawkins, investing them with full power and authority to handle the funds of the Association and to examine its books was proposed by Mr. Kimberly, and upon a vote being taken, it was laid aside. The ladies, with some exceptions, rejected it and the President and Treasurer, not recognizing the legality of the document, refused to vote. In this manner it was laid over. Notwithstanding this, the parties resolved themselves into committees and set to work.

On the 3d. of April a committee, consisting of Messrs. Kimberly and Bostock, under this so called constitution, came to our office and demanded the books. The President being present, stated that having refused to accept the constitution, she would not recognise the committee. On the 4th. Mr. Kimberly called, with two gentlemen, and again demanded the books, and was again refused.

On the 5th. by request of Messrs. Kimberly, Hawkins and Bostock, we, with two witnesses attended an interview with them at Barnum's Hotel. Mr. Hawkins stated that he had that morning received a letter from General Trimble, authorizing him to prosecute us for having opened one of the General's letters, which he intended to do to the full extent of the law if we did not give up the book. As the officers should decide this, we told him that he would be answered next day. On that evening the officers and ourselves were arrested on a warrant issued by Mr. Kimberly, and released on bail. The next evening Mr. Hawkins issued a warrant for the arrest of our book keeper, Mr. Schiers, on the charge of having opened General Trimble's letter. As the charge was false, Mr. Schiers was dismissed. We see from this morning's "Sun" that these parties "announce their unqualified repudiation of the project," etc., which will be taken for what it is worth, when it will be shown that they repudiated, etc., because they lost their large commissions in the rejections of their farms and houses by the Society.

The offices and rank they append to their signatures are of their own creation, as the Society wishes the public to understand that it does not recognize the name and office of "Finance Committee" as ever having been created by said society.

We here leave the public to determine the motives of our accusers, for, to our mind, a simple narration of the above facts is sufficient to show that the Association and ourselves are attacked because we would not suit the purposes of Messrs. Hawkins, Bostock and Kimberly.

L. T. PALMER & CO.

In consequence of the persecution arising from our late connection with these persons, we are compelled to postpone the GRAND CHARITABLE PRESENTATION CONCERT to the SEVENTEENTH DAY OF JUNE, 1867. This will give us ample time to dispose of all the tickets, and it will afford the public an opportunity to investigate the facts which we have published, thus gaining that confidence which is necessary to ensure the success of every public measure.

We do not wish these statements to be taken unsubstantiated, as we cordially invite an investigation of the enterprise. The grand jury of this city presented us, and we hoped that they would go further and indict us, for we wished to prove to the world our honesty and disinterestedness in this measure, which could not be better done than in an investigation by the grand inquest.

It now remains with the public whether the "Home and School" shall be built. Whether the poor, fatherless children of the South, whose parents' blood was shed in defence of their homes, shall be deprived of the blessings which this enterprise seeks to obtain for them. Must we appeal in vain? No, it shall not be said that the Southern people were so ungenerous as to condemn those who are seeking to benefit the children of the soldiers who died for them, upon the evidence of men who, when they saw their own mercenary aims frustrated, sought to cover their guilt by bringing charges on us. Charges which, in the only trial that was allowed us, were proved to be as false as perjury could make them.

L. T. PALMER & CO.

Mrs. J. L. HAMMOND, President, Mrs. E. A. F. MEARES, Treasurer, Mrs. McCUBBIN and Mrs. SCHIERS, Trustees of the Southern Orphan Association, have also published a card. The following are extracts:

"We invite an examination of our books and the funds now accumulating in bank subject to the order of the Association, for the purpose of erecting the home and school for the orphans of the "Confederate dead" in the city of Richmond, Virginia. Nothing that we can say will testify more accurately the correctness of our plans than an investigation of our books and funds, and it was because we, as custodians of these treasures, would not surrender them to dishonest men, that we are now subject to their persecutions and abuse.

We have seen the horrors and devastation of the late war, and know the immense amount of suffering occasioned by it. Homes were rendered cheerless by the loss of its head, who fell fighting for the homes of the South, and it was our sympathy for the poor and friendless orphans of the South that caused us to enter into the resolution of securing for them a home and providing an education, as may render them hereafter good and useful citizens of a free and happy land.

We confess, however, that if we could have looked through the future and seen the trials and persecutions to which we are subjected, we would have never attempted to begin so thankless a work. But now, having embarked in it, our reputation is at stake, and we must build the Home and School; therefore we call upon all good people to assist us toward the completion of our work by discrediting the assertions made by our enemies. And we ask—nay, we demand—that those papers whose opinions were founded upon the acts of our employees, should give to the public our statements, and modify their assertions so as to be in strict accordance with the facts.

Not long since, Messrs. L. T. Palmer & Co., published a card which, as we approved it then, we will officially endorse it now, that the information contained therein may go forth to the public with every guarantee for its truthfulness.

In consequence of the delay occasioned by the conduct of the persons above alluded to, we have been compelled to inform our managers to postpone the Concert until the 17th. day of June, 1867, that we may be able to begin the building as soon as our Concert business shall end."

LECTURES BY REV. J. S. LONG.—We are pleased to announce that this gentleman will deliver his two lectures,—on the "Ethics of History" and the "Life of Bishop Bascom,"—at the Commons Hall, in this City, on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The object of these lectures is to aid in the rebuilding of the Methodist Church in Washington, N. C., which was destroyed by fire on the 30th. of April, 1864, on the evacuation of the town by the Federal forces,—an object which commends itself to Christians of all denominations and the community at large. Perhaps no place suffered so much during the war as this town. We believe that all the churches were destroyed, and the condition of the people renders it indispensable that they should apply for extraneous assistance to enable them to re-erect their houses of worship.

Mr. Long has lectured in Newbern, Wilmington and Fayetteville, and the press of those cities has spoken in the most exalted terms of his rare gifts of oratory. We have never seen, we may say, higher praise awarded to any public lecturer. That these commendations are fully merited, we are sure, and we predict for those of our citizens, who may attend, a literary feast of uncommon attractiveness.

The last Fayetteville News speaks of Mr. Long's lectures in the following terms:

"Seldom has it been our good fortune to enjoy a literary entertainment so pleasing, so instructive, so entirely satisfactory, as has been recently afforded by his delivery of his two lectures—'The Ethics of History,' on Friday evening, the 26th., and 'The Life of Bishop Bascom, on Monday evening, the 29th. Endowed with the faculty of surprising command of language, gifted with an elegance of diction and a refinement of imagery, possessed of a powerful and well modulated voice, the speaker takes hold of the minds and sympathies of his audience, and carries them with him throughout his efforts.

If we are called upon to make a distinction between the two lectures, we will say that for beauty and eloquence, touching pathos and great power, and solid evidence of great research and scholarly attainments, the 'Ethics of History' was perfect. But we can offer no higher praise to the address on the 'Life of Bishop Bascom' than to say that, with a miscellaneous audience, many of whom were of other denominations than that which claimed the deceased Bishop, and who were to be forced into sympathy with the subject, Mr. Long was, if possible, still more successful than on his first night, in giving pleasure and gratification to his hearers."

The price of admission to the Lectures will be 50 cents each.

SUNDAY WORK.—We take pleasure in stating that we were informed, this morning, that Gen. Miles, Chief of the Freedmen's Bureau in this State, now of this city, has given orders for the suspension of the business of the Bureau officers hereafter on Sunday. We hope Gen. Howard, Chief Commissioner at Washington, will make this order of Gen. Miles' universal in its application. We presume no necessity exists for the continuance of Sunday work in that department; indeed the labors of the Quartermaster's Department, it seems to us, might also be suspended in respect to that holy day, to afford all the employees of the government relief from labor on that day, and the privilege of enjoying the religious services of the Sabbath, in which all men should participate. We know that "the King's business requires haste," and there are occasions when God's day must, of necessity—at least that is the judgment of many,—be encroached upon, but in all cases the necessity should be imperious.

For the Sentinel.

MESSRS EDITORS:—Will you not urge upon our young men the importance of establishing debating and reading clubs and circulating libraries? Associated efforts will necessarily accomplish much that they might fail in as individuals, however industrious and persevering in their exercises and trials. Interchange of thought and conflict of opinions will elicit scintillations of mind, which might otherwise remain dormant forever, but being evolved can be kindled into intellectual fires that may warm and illumine by their genial glow and brightning influence the present and future of our country; just as the striking of flint and steel together will produce a spark of material flame, which could not be produced from either without collision, but, being emitted, may be kindled into flames to warm and cherish us, and to minister to our material welfare and support in thousands of ways.

We have any number of Base Ball clubs, with their match games, which are very improving in their way, as they certainly are quite pleasant and exciting. The appearance of vigorous health and personal activity exhibited on these occasions, speaks well for the physique of the young gentlemen, and conclusively shows what regular exercise and training will do in the way of developing the physical man. Now it is no less certain, that the same amount of time regularly and judiciously spent of evenings, in intellectual exercises and training, under rules and regulations as stringent and equally forceful in compelling obedience to prescribed duties, would result in an intellectual vigor and activity corresponding with this physical improvement. These mental exercises, with the purpose of storing the mind with knowledge and of speaking and writing correctly, necessitate the habit of thinking accurately, a matter of the utmost importance, under all circumstances, and to every one, who hopes and expects to conquer and possess the world on the line of his operations, whether actually and actively engaged in the pressing pursuits of life, or only training for the necessary struggles of the world. Moreover, there would be fewer vices, and less faults of any kind in the world, if we were in the habit of thinking before acting, which would be the fruit of such intellectual training; while the fact is undeniable, that familiarity with our best authors gives point and polish to our talents for business, as well as to our conversation and manners. Will not then the gold and silver of Johnson, Addison and Burke, and the diamonds and pearls of Milton, Shakspeare, Pope and Dryden weigh somewhat in the estimation of the treasure seekers of this world? for after all,

"What is the world? What asken men to have,
Now with his lore, and now in his cold grave?"

CLIO.

THE FAYETTEVILLE MAIL.—We deeply regret that the daily mail from this city to Fayetteville should have been suspended.—It is a serious inconvenience to the business men of that place, which no other arrangement can possibly remedy. We are, however, sure that no blame can be attached to either Dr. Jobe, the special mail agent, or to the Postmaster of this city.

Dr. Jobe has just returned from Fayetteville, having effected an arrangement for carrying the mail from Wilmington to Fayetteville, tri-weekly, by the river boats, which, with the tri-weekly mail by way of Lumberton, will give them a daily mail.—This arrangement, we presume, is only temporary, as the contract for the mail from this city to Fayetteville, which has already been made for four years with Mr. Clemmons, begins on the 1st. of July next, which we hope will not be vitiated.

We regret very much that the people of Fayetteville did not call the attention of the Post Office Department to the importance of changing the old mail route. It is the longest stage route in the Eastern part of the State, over one of the worst roads we have, and so poorly supplied with food for horses, as to make it one of the most perplexing and expensive routes in the country. It appears to us that the daily mail route for the Northern mail to Fayetteville should be from this city to Jonesboro', or Morrisville to the present terminus of the Western (Coalfield) Railroad. This would reduce the staging one-half.

Besides, we think the public mind would by this means be kept upon the final completion of the Chatham Railroad,—a work which may now be completed at an inconsiderable expense, and which would accomplish much for the development of the resources of Deep River.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE.—We learn that a change of schedule has been made on the North Carolina Railroad, which went into effect on yesterday. The mail train from the East now arrives at 3.50 P. M., and leaves for the West at 4.05 P. M. The mail train from the West arrives at 9.18 A. M. and leaves for the East at 9.28 A. M. The Accommodation train from the East arrives at 5.12 A. M. and leaves for the West at 6 A. M. The same train from the West arrives at 10.40 P. M. and leaves for the East at 11.20 P. M. We understand that the through time, (mail train,) from Charlotte to Goldsboro', is eleven hours and fifty-one minutes.

This arrangement is a very inconvenient and objectionable one to the press of this City, but we will endeavor to accommodate ourselves to it as soon as practicable.

RALEIGH AND GASTON R. R.—The announcement of change of schedule on this Road was received at so late an hour, that we have barely time to call attention to it to-day. We may say, however, that, under the new arrangement, the connections are through and complete, and that, under its skilful management, this Road offers every possible facility to travellers and shippers.

THE NEWBERN papers publish the address of Maj. Jno. Hughes, on the occasion of laying the corner stone of the Soldiers' Mausoleum in that city. It is a chaste and elegant production.

The Danville News says that one firm in that place took in on Monday last upwards of eight hundred dollars in cash; and the News says that is "pretty good for these dull times."

Our correspondent at Chicopee, in noticing some weeks since the new hearse in that town, said it was of "such rich and rare material and workmanship, as almost to tempt one to wish for a ride." The first time the hearse was used it was to convey his remains to the depot in that village.—Springfield Union.

FERTILIZERS FOR SPRING CROPS.

WE beg to inform the trade and planters of North Carolina and Virginia, that we are prepared to furnish them with the most approved FERTILIZERS, on the most accommodating terms. We will have a stock of genuine PERUVIAN GUANO, purchased direct from the Agent of the Peruvian Government.

We have now in store, for immediate delivery, 325 tons BRADLEY'S SUPER PHOSPHATE OF LIME, which won for itself such an enviable reputation in the Cotton and Tobacco counties of North Carolina and Virginia, last season, proving itself equal, and in many important respects superior to the Peruvian Guano. We give an analysis of it as ascertained by Dr. Hayes, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country:

Results of Analyses Made of Bradley's Patent Super-Phosphate of Lime, as now sold by Wm. L. Bradley.

100 PARTS CONSIST OF
Moisture	3.30
Prepared animal matter, salts of Ammonia, fatty substances and Humus	28.50
Bone Phosphates of Lime, Magnesia and Iron	48.80
(Soluble Phosphates of do. 16 6-10.)
Sulphate of Lime	18.50
Salts	.20
Insoluble	2.20
	99.30

The animal matter afforded 4 2-10 parts of Ammonia when it was decomposed, and, as will be seen, nearly one-half of the Bone Phosphate is olable.

After many analyses of your Super-Phosphate of Lime, made during the last few months, I have found your standard of quality full equal to that of any you have ever sold in former years; and I am satisfied that you include the correct principles in the manufacture. Respectfully,

A. A. HAYES, M. D., State Assayer.

THE SENTINEL.

MONDAY, MAY 6, 1867.

MAY.

O this is the beautiful month of May,
The season of birds and flowers;
The young and the lovely are out and away,
'Mid the up springing grass and the blue cowslips play;
And many a heart will be happy to-day,
In this beautiful region of ours.

Sweet April, the frail, the capriciously bright,
Has passed like the lovely away,
Yet we mourn not her absence, for swift at her flight
Sprang forth her young sister, an angel of light
And fair as a sunbeam that dazzles the sight,
Is beautiful, beautiful May.

What scenes of delight, what sweet visions she brings
Of freshness, of gladness, and mirth,
Of fair sunny glades where the buttercup springs,
Of cool gushing fountains, of rose-tinted wings;
Of birds, bees, and blossoms, all beautiful things
Whose brightness rejoices the earth.

How sweet when the mouth's in the flush of its prime,
To hear, as we wander alone,
Some bird's sudden song from the sweet-scented lime,
And catch the low gush of its exquisite chime,
And set it to music and turn it to rhyme,
With a spirit as light as its own.

Yet, loveliest of months! with the praises I sing,
Thy glories are passing away;
With the dew from the blossom, the bird on the wing,
Yet round thee a garland poetic I fling,
Sweet sister of April! young child of the Spring!
O beautiful, beautiful May!

Mrs. Welby.

SPICY.—There was a knot of sea-captains in a store at Honolulu, the keeper of which had just bought a barrel of black pepper.—Old Captain——, of Salem, came in, and seeing the pepper, took up a handful of it.

"What do you buy such stuff as that for?" said he to the storekeeper, "it's half peas."

"Peas!" replied the storekeeper; "there isn't a pea in it."

Taking up a handful as he spoke, he appealed to the company. They all looked at it, and plunged their hands into the barrel, and bit a kernel or so, and then gave it as their universal opinion, that there wasn't a pea in it.

"I tell you there is," said the old captain, again scooping up a handful; "and I'll bet a dollar on it."

The old Boston argument all over the world. They took him up.

"Well," said he, "spell that," pointing to the word "P-e-p-p-e-r," painted on the side of the barrel. "If it isn't half ps, then I'm no judge, that's all."

The bet was paid.

CONSCIENTIOUS.—A revolutionary soldier was running for Congress, and his opponent was a young man who had "never been to the wars," and it was the custom of old Revolutionary to tell of the hardships he had endured. Said he:

"Fellow-citizens, I have fought and bled for my country. I helped to whip the British and the Indians. I have slept on the field of battle with no other covering than the canopy of Heaven. I have walked over the frozen ground till every footstep was marked with blood."

Just about this one of the sovereigns who had become greatly interested in his tale of sufferings, walked up in front of the speaker, wiped the tears from his eyes with the extremity of his coat tail, and interrupted him with:

"Did you say you had fout the British and Injins?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you say you had slept on the ground, while serving your country, without any kiver?"

"I did."

"Did you say your feet kivered the ground you walked over with blood?"

"Yes," replied the speaker exultingly.

"Well then," said the tearful sovereign, as he gave a sign of fearful emotion, "I guess I'll vote for the t'other fellow, for I'll be blamed if you ain't done enough for your country."

SOLDIER REPARTEE.—We have read many amusing specimens of soldier wit, but as good as we have seen was the reply of a Virginia cavalryman to a N. C. infantryman. "It was on the march towards Adairsville, in Nov. '63, a cold, bright morning, while the troops were lying along the road waiting for some obstacle to be removed in front. A fellow came jogging down the line on an old flea bitten frame of a horse; as he passed, one chap greeted him with "I say, mistur, yeou ar mity like a brudher av mine the hogs ete up!" The cavalryman did not relax a muscle, but gazing "Far Heel" straight in the face, replied, "Wal, my friend, tis a monstrous pity tha had'nt finished the family, while tha war a eatin," and moved on, amid shouts of laughter.—Danville Times.

They have an odd way of doing up rampant females in Memphis. They sack 'em. A Memphis paper says: An obstreperous woman was taken to the Adams street police station on Monday night, tied up in a bag, her head only being out. She was thus kept from doing mischief, and was carried along on the back of a sturdy black man.

And old colored preacher and school teacher in Columbus, Ga., was asked, the other day, what party he belonged to now. Like a "man and a brother," he replied: "Don't belong to no party, sah; loves all good people jes alike, prays for all jes alike." "Then," said the inquirer, "you are a philanthropist?" "No, sah, I isn't dat—dat I isn't—I'se a Baptist, sah, a Baptist."

Congressional Reconstruction Acts.

For the information of our readers we republish as follows the late reconstruction act of Congress, known as the Sherman-Shellabarger bill. We shall add to it the Howard Amendment, Test Oath and the Supplementary act, all of which will be kept standing until the necessary information they contain shall be generally and fully understood.

THE RECONSTRUCTION ACT.

AN ACT to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States.

[Passed over the President's Veto, March 2d, 1867.]

WHEREAS, no legal State governments or adequate protection for life or property now exists in the rebel States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Texas, and Arkansas; and whereas it is necessary that peace and good order should be enforced in said States until legal and Republican State Governments can be legally established: Therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That said rebel States shall be divided into military districts and made subject to the military authority of the United States, as hereinafter prescribed, and for that purpose Virginia shall constitute the first district; North Carolina and South Carolina the second district; Georgia, Alabama and Florida the third district; Mississippi and Arkansas the fourth district; and Louisiana and Texas the fifth district.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the President to assign to the command of each of said districts an officer of the army, not below the rank of Brigadier general, and to detail a sufficient military force to enable such officer to perform his duties and enforce his authority within the district to which he is assigned.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of each officer assigned as aforesaid to protect all persons in their rights of person and property, to suppress insurrection, disorder and violence, and to punish or cause to be punished all disturbers of the public peace and criminals, and to this end he may allow local civil tribunals to take jurisdiction of and to try offenders, or, when in his judgement it may be necessary for the trial of offenders, he shall have power to organize military commissions or tribunals for that purpose, and all interference, under color of State authority, with the exercise of military authority under this act shall be null and void.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That all persons put under military arrest by virtue of this act shall be tried without unnecessary delay, and no cruel or unusual punishment shall be inflicted; and no sentence of any military commission or tribunal hereby authorized affecting the life or liberty of any person, shall be executed until it is approved by the officer in command of the district, and the laws and regulations for the government of the army shall not be affected by this act, except in so far as they conflict with its provisions. Provided, That no sentence of death, under the provisions of this act, shall be carried into effect without the approval of the President.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That when the people of any one of said rebel States shall have formed a constitution of government in conformity with the Constitution of the United States in all respects, framed by a convention of delegates elected by the male citizens of said State, twenty one years old and upwards, of whatever race, color or previous condition, who have been resident in said State for one year previous to the day of such election, except such as may be disfranchised for participation in the rebellion, or for felony at common law; and when such constitution shall provide that the elective franchise shall be enjoyed by all such persons as have the qualifications herein stated for electors of delegates; and when such constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such Constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such constitution shall have been submitted to Congress for examination and approval, and Congress shall have approved the same; and when the said State, by a vote of its legislature, elected under said constitution, shall have adopted the amendment to the constitution of the United States, proposed by the Thirty-ninth Congress, and known as article fourteen; and when said article shall have become a part of the constitution of the United States, said State shall be declared entitled to representation in Congress, and Senators and Representatives shall be admitted therefrom, on their taking the oath prescribed by law; and then and thereafter the preceding sections of this act shall be inoperative in said State. Provided, That no person excluded from the privilege of holding office by said amendment to the constitution of the United States shall be eligible to election as a member of the convention to frame a constitution for any of said rebel States, nor shall any such person vote for members of such convention.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That until the people of said rebel States shall be by law admitted to representation in the Congress of the United States, any civil government which may exist therein shall be deemed provisional only, and in all respects subject to the paramount authority of the United States at any time to abolish, modify, control or supersede the same; and in all elections to any office under such provisional governments all persons shall be entitled to vote, and none others, who are entitled to vote under the provisions of the fifth section of this act; and no person shall be eligible to any office under such provisional governments who would be disqualified from holding office under the provisions of the third article of said constitutional amendment.

SCHUYLER COLFAX,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.
LAFAYETTE S. FOSTER,

The following is the Constitutional Amendment referred to in the 4th section of the Sherman Bill:

Proposed Constitutional Amendment.

ARTICLE XIV.

Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Sec. 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, representatives in Congress, executive and judicial officers of a State, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State being twenty-one years of age and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

Sec. 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice-President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid and comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.

Sec. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims, shall be held illegal and void.

Sec. 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article.

The following is the oath of office referred to in the 5th section of the bill, and also in the 6th of the Supplementary Bill:

An Act to Prescribe an Oath of Office and for Other Purposes.

Be it enacted, That hereafter any person elected or appointed to any office of honor or profit under the government of the United States, either in the civil, military or naval department of the public service, except the President of the United States, shall before entering upon the duties of such office, and before being entitled to any of the salary or other emolument thereof, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I, A B, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I have never voluntarily borne arms against the U. S. since I have been a citizen thereof; that I have voluntarily given no aid countenance, counsel or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility thereto; that I have never sought nor accepted, nor attempted to exercise the functions of any office whatever, under any authority, or pretended authority, in hostility to the United States; that I have not yielded a voluntary support to any pretended government, power or constitution within the United States, hostile or inimical thereto; and I do further swear (or affirm) that to the best of my knowlege and ability, I will support and defend the constitution of the United states against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion, and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter. So help me God," which oath, so taken and signed, shall be preserved among the files of the Court, Houses of Congress, or the department to which said officer may appertain. And any person who may falsely take said oath shall be guilty of perjury, and on conviction, in addition to the penalties now prescribed for that offence, shall be deprived of his office, and rendered incapable, forever after, of holding any office or place under the United States.

Approved July 2, 1862

SUPPLEMENT TO THE STEVENS-SHERMAN-SHELLABARGER BILL.

AN ACT supplemental to an act entitled an act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States, passed March 2, 1867, and to facilitate restoration.

Be it enacted &c., That before the first day of September, 1867, the commanding general in each district defined by the act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States, approved March 2, 1867, shall cause a registration to be made of the male citizens of the United States, twenty-one years of age, and upwards, resident in each county or parish in the State or States included in his district, which registration will include only those persons who are qualified to vote for delegates by the act aforesaid, and who shall have taken and subscribed the following oath or affirmation:

"I, ——, do solemnly swear, or affirm, in the presence of Almighty God, that I am a citizen of the State of ——; that I have resided in said State for —— months next preceding this day, and now reside in the county of ——, or the parish of ——, in said State, as the case may be; that I am 21 years old; that I have not been disfranchised for participation in any rebellion or civil war against the United States, nor for felony committed against the laws of any State or of the United States; that I have never been a member of any State Legislature, or held any executive or judicial office in any State, and afterwards engaged in insurrection and rebellion against the United States, and given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof; that I have never taken an oath as a member of Congress of the United States, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, and afterwards engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the United States or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof; that I will faithfully support the Constitution and obey the laws of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, encourage others so to do. So help me God," which oath or affirmation may be administered by any registering officer.

Sec. 2. That after the completion of the registration hereby provided for in any State at such time and place therein as the commanding general shall appoint and direct, of which at least thirty day's public notice shall be given, an election shall be held of delegates to a convention for the purpose of establishing a constitution and civil government for such state loyal to the Union; said convention in each State, except Virginia, to consist of the same number of members as the most numerous branch of the State Legislature of such State in the year 1860, to be apportioned among the several districts, counties, or parishes of such state by the commanding general, giving to each representation in the ratio of voters registered as aforesaid as nearly as may be. The convention in Virginia shall consist of the same number of members as represented the territory now constituting Virginia in the most numerous branch of the Legislature of said State in the year 1860, to be apportioned as aforesaid.

Sec. 3. That at such election the registered voters of each State shall vote for or against a convention to form a constitution thereof under this act. Those voting in favor of such a convention shall have written or printed on the ballots by which they vote for delegates as aforesaid, the words "for a convention;" and those voting against such a convention shall have written or printed on such ballots the words "against a convention." The persons appointed to superintend said election, and to make return of the votes given thereat, as herein provided, shall count and make return of the votes given for and against a convention; and the commanding general shall thereupon the same shall have been returned, shall ascertain and declare the total vote in each State for and against a convention. If a majority of the votes given on that question shall be for a convention, then a convention shall be held, as hereinafter provided; but if a majority of said votes shall be against a convention, then no convention shall be held under this act: Provided, That such convention shall not be held unless a majority of all such registered voters shall have voted on the question of holding such convention.

Sec. 4. That the commanding general of each district shall appoint such loyal officers or persons as may be necessary, not exceeding three in each election district, in any State, to make and complete the registration, superintend the election, and make return to him of the votes, lists of voters and of the persons elected as delegates by a plurality of the votes cast at said election; and upon receiving said returns he shall open the same, ascertain the persons elected as delegates according to the returns of the officers who conducted said election, and make proclamation thereof; and if a majority of the votes given on that question shall be for a convention, the commanding general within sixty days from the date of election, shall notify the delegates to assemble in convention at a time and place to be mentioned in the notification, and said convention, when organized, shall proceed to frame a Constitution and civil government according to the provisions of this act, and the act to which it is supplementary; and when the same shall have been so framed, said Constitution shall be submitted by the convention for ratification to the persons registered under the provisions of this act, at an election to be conducted by the officers, or persons appointed by the commanding general as hereinbefore provided, and to be held after the expiration of thirty days from the date of notice thereof to be given by said convention, and the returns thereof shall be made to the commanding general of the district.

Sec. 5. That if, according to said returns, the constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the votes of the registered electors qualified as hereinbefore specified, cast at said election, at least one-half of all the registered voters voting upon the question of such ratification, the president of the convention shall transmit a copy of the same, duly certified, to the President of the United States, who shall forthwith transmit the same to Congress, if then in session, and if not in session, then immediately upon its next assembling; and if it shall moreover appear to Congress that the election was one at which all the registered and qualified electors in the State had an opportunity to vote freely and without restraint, fear or the influence of fraud, and if Congress shall be satisfied that such constitution meets the approval of a majority of the qualified electors in the State, and if the said constitution shall be declared by Congress to be in conformity with the provisions of the act to which this is supplementary, and the other provisions of said act shall have been complied with, and the said constitution shall be approved by Congress, the State shall be declared entitled to representation, and Senators and Representatives shall be admitted therefrom as herein provided.

Sec. 6. That all elections in the States mentioned in the said "Act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States," shall, during the operation of said act, be by ballot; and all officers making the said registration of voters and conducting said elections shall, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, subscribe an oath faithfully to perform the duties of their said office, and the oath prescribed by the act approved July 2, 1862, entitled "An act to prescribe an oath of office." Provided, That if any person shall knowingly and falsely take and subscribe any oath in this act prescribed, such person so offending, and being thereof duly convicted, shall be subject to the pains, penalties and disabilities which by law are provided for the punishment of the crime of wilful and corrupt perjury.

Sec. 7. That all expenses incurred by the several commanding generals, or by virtue of any orders issued or appointments made by them under or by virtue of this act, shall be paid out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Sec. 8. That the convention for each State shall prescribe the fees, salary, and compensation to be paid to all delegates and other officers and agents herein authorized or necessary to carry into effect the purposes of this act, not herein otherwise provided for, and shall provide for the levy and collection of such taxes on the property in such State as may be necessary to pay the same.

Sec. 9. That the word "article" in the sixth section of the act to which this is supplementary shall be construed to mean "section."
